D. Concept:

Skill and Entrepreneurship Development are now vital factors in the growth of any economy. Significant importance is given by the Government of India as well as the Government of Mizoram as skilled persons provide not only self-employment but also create employment, and produce innovative and new businesses from manufacturing to services. After thorough research by prominent institutions all over the world, it is also believed that both are the only source to tackle unemployment. Labour, Employment, Skill Development and Entrepreneurship Department under the Government of Mizoram introduced the Mizoram State Policy on Skill & Entrepreneurship Development as per the National Policy on Skill India. The policy aims to address the problem of the ever-increasing educated unemployed within the state. It also aims to provide skills to both educated and un-educated youths since Mizoram has 61.24% working group which needs to be nurtured to gain employment. With the commitment of the Government of India under two Ministries it had taken up these challenges, one could only see that this period is the golden age for potential Skill development. However, due to geographical and social problems, many people/ youth in Mizoram are unaware of many development programmes of the Govt. of India. In addition, even though there are a few programmes based on skill and entrepreneurship development, Mizoram is still lagging behind and the development programmes are still in its rudimentary stage.

Hence, the need for awareness programmes rises and for this purpose, after a couple of meetings between LESDE and Skill Development Cell of Government Aizawl West College through the Department of Higher & Technical Education, A Two-day Skill Development Sensitization Programme is finally organized on the 8th and 9th of 2022. It focuses on diverse segments of youth development programmes such as two lectures on Skill Development and Awareness, Media and Entertainment (Photography & Filming), Floristry and Baking and Confectionery so that our students will have employment in different Jobs that are available on the market. It aims not only to give hand-holding support to give employment but also to encourage its students to provide employment.

E. Organizing members: To implement this programme Organizing Committee is set up as follows:

Chairperson : Ms. Lianhlupuii, Associate Professor
Coordinator : Dr. R. Lalsangpuii, Associate Professor
Member : Mr. Vanlalmawia, Associate Professor

G. Brief Report on the Event:

A Workshop on Skill Development and Sensitization Programme organized by LESDE, Government of Mizoram and Skill Development Cell, Aizawl West College was conducted on the 8th and 9th September 2022, at Aizawl West College. During this two-day programme, students received training on various vocational skills like photography, film development, baking, as well as a flower arrangement. The programme was inaugurated by Mrs. Lianhlupuii, Associate Professor, GAWC and Prof. C. Lalthlengliana delivered a welcome speech, vote of thanks was proposed by Dr. R. Lalsangpuii, Coordinator.

Mr K. Lalhmingliana, Director, LESDE addressed the audience on the importance of skills and the value of nurturing these skills for vocational pursuits. He spoke on the magnitude of the their operations in spite of being a smaller department. He then emphasised on the various skills of many Mizo youths that have earned them numerous awards on the national level. According to him, the future of Mizoram and its economic development lies on skill development.

He then gave a brief account of Skill India:

First introduced in 2015, “Skill India” is an initiative under the Government of India aimed for progressive development of the country with the help of skill training. India has a rich history of artistic and technical skills before the colonization of India by the British brought about a change in the general attitude of the people instilling a reverence for Government employments. However, the country is slowly returning to its past glory. We Mizo people have also been blessed by God with valuable skills. Seeing so many “Made in China” labels have made us yearn for more labels that reads: “Made in Mizoram”. All the competition in the business world is also nothing but a “Skill War”. If we don’t nurture our skills even under the Look East Policy, our future is bleak. So we should always strive to improve our skills.

He ended his speech alluding to the renowned Rokunga’s “Raltiang ram”, a land of knowledge and skills, stating that the one way to reach this place is through Skill Development.

After the speech, the resource person for the programme, Mr. Lalmuanawma, Dy. Director, LESDE guided the students through the various vocational skills under “Skill India” which they can pursue once they graduate. This was followed by a speech from Mr. Lalramchuanzela, Executive Director, Mission Foundation Movement where he encouraged the students to look into themselves and figure out ways to improve themselves instead of competing with others.

During the afternoon programme, a third position awardee in a national level flower arrangement competition, Maximus Lalruatkima, a student of St. Joseph High School shared his skills instructing his fellow students on flower arrangement.

On the second day, Lalzawna Pachuau, Mizoram Outlook provide training on photography and film development. Lalrinawmi Khiangte, KB Bakers/Hnangfak, Zarkawt also share her expert skills about baking, how to get started, the dedication needed to pursue it, as well as the market prospects.

The program commenced at 1:30 pm, with Dr. Malsawmdawngliana presiding over the event. He articulated the purpose of the symposium, emphasizing the profound cultural and historical value embedded in the tangible heritage of the Mizo. Dr. Malsawmdawngliana mentioned the importance of the field research conducted by first-semester MA students, which revealed the stories and narratives intertwined with various heritage monuments.

Dr. Malsawmdawngliana invited Vanlalfakawma, an Archivist from ATC (Aizawl Theological College), as a special Keynote speaker. Vanlalfakawma commenced his lecture by reminiscing about the unfortunate incident of the burning of the DC Office in Aizawl, a repository of colonial documents. He highlighted the commendable effort of the administrative staff and faculty from Mizoram University in digitizing 90% of these historical documents. Vanlalfakawma emphasized the pivotal role of individuals in the preservation and progress of archives and shared insights into the preservation of essential documents such as "Mizo leh Vai Chanchinbu," "Kristian Tlangau," "Kohhran Beng," Synod meeting records, and local church records using modern technologies. He also mentioned his training experience in handling such invaluable documents.

Following the keynote lecture, the symposium featured presentations by student groups focusing on various heritage sites and monuments:

Group One - Lalthakimi, Malsawmzuali, Biakthansanga:

This group presented on the heritage building known as "Pi Zaii Bangla." They provided detailed insights into its architectural design, characterized as the Assam type, and highlighted its construction under the supervision of Pu Niara. Additionally, the group shed light on the establishment of the Young Mizo Association under the guidance of Pu Niara and Pi Zaii. They concluded their presentation with recommendations for the preservation of this heritage building.

Group Two - Pricila Lalfelfamkimi, Zarzotluangi, and Lalduhkima:

This group focused on the heritage monument "Aizawl Centenary Lung." They described the structure of the monument, delved into the story behind its construction, and explored the origin and etymology of Aizawl. They speculated that Aizawl might have been named in 1810 when Sailo chief Lalsavunga occupied the region.

Group Three - Rebek Lalrinhlui and Zomuanpuii:

This group's presentation centered on the heritage building "Sikul Sen." They elaborated on its historical origins, tracing its establishment under Christian missionaries, and its subsequent governance by the Government of Mizoram for a period. The group provided insights into the unique characteristics of the building, including the reason behind its name, "Sikul Sen," derived from its distinctive red color. They also presented the daily routine followed at this school.

The symposium attendees, including faculty members from Government Aizawl West College, researchers from Mizoram University, and the special invitee, received a wealth of information and insights from these presentations. The discussions and presentations have contributed significantly to the understanding and preservation of Mizo heritage.

Conclusion:

The symposium on Mizo heritage preservation served as a platform for knowledge exchange and reflection on the importance of tangible cultural heritage. The contributions from students and the guest speaker emphasized the vital role of preserving and documenting the rich cultural legacy of the Mizo community. These insights will undoubtedly guide future efforts in heritage conservation and scholarly research.

COMMENTS AND SUGGESTIONS

This report summarizes the valuable comments and suggestions provided by esteemed invitees during a recent symposium on Preserving Our Past, Celebrating Our Culture, Theme: Exploring Heritage Site/Building in Aizawl presented by MA First Semester Students. These insights are important for enhancing the quality and content of the student's research and reports.

Comments and Suggestions:

1. Mr. Lalengzauva, Faculty in the Department of Mizo:

Mr. Lalengzauva, a faculty member of the Department of Mizo, emphasized the importance of prioritizing the Mizo community in their academic pursuits. He advocated for a focus on essential presentation content, suggesting that superfluous portions be omitted. His vision is encapsulated in the phrase "Study for the Mizo, by the Mizo," which he recommended as their primary motive.

2. Mr. H. Lalawmpuia, Faculty in the Department of Mizo:

Mr. H. Lalawmpuia, a faculty member from the Department of Mizo, highlighted the necessity of meticulously verifying historical dates concerning Aizawl. He expounded on the historical context, noting that Aizawl was once occupied by the Vais, resulting in the term "Vai ka zin" for Mizo individuals who ventured there. He further suggested including Hrawva, the Aizawl chief.

3. Lalsangpuii, Faculty in the Department of Mizo:

Lalsangpuii, a faculty member of the Department of Mizo, emphasized the correctness of Mizo language usage in their presentations. She recommended replacing phrases such as "I want to thank..." with proper Mizo language like "I thank so and so."

4. Dr. Lalremruati Pachuau, Faculty in the Department of Psychology:

Dr. Lalremruati Pachuau, a faculty member in the Department of Psychology, observed the absence of research question samples from the main report. Additionally, she expressed concerns regarding the clarity of the date reports related to Aizawl. She recommended a thorough review of these sections.

5. Dr. Lalremruati, Faculty in the Department of Psychology:

Dr. Lalremruati, another faculty member of the Department of Psychology, proposed the adoption of a third-person language format for report writing, aligning with established academic conventions.

6. Mr. R. Lalbiakzuala, Faculty in the Department of Economics:

Mr. R. Lalbiakzuala, a faculty member in the Department of Economics, lauded the symposium theme, "Preserving our Past, Celebrating Our Culture." He particularly appreciated the inclusion of Sikul Sen, a place with significant sentimental value tied to his father's school.

7. Vanlalfakawma, Special Invitee and Archivist at ATC:

Vanlalfakawma, an Archivist at ATC (Aizawl Theological College), underscored the critical importance of chronology, proper writing, and meticulous documentation in academic endeavors. Also ensuring the mention of Sikul Sen for boys and PC Girls for girls in the presentation.

8. Dr. Phillia L. Khiangte:

Dr. Phillia L. Khiangte, a faculty member in the Department of English: The History Department deserves commendation for the impeccable organization, execution, and planning of the program. The project has shed light on several critical aspects, emphasizing the ongoing necessity for documenting historically significant sites. The mini-research undertaken for this initiative serves as a promising starting point and has the potential to catalyze further endeavors in this field.

The individual expressing appreciation has personally gained substantial insights from this undertaking, attributing gratitude to Dr. Malsawmdawngliana and the entire History department. The utilization of a personal diary format in the students' reports adds a unique and engaging dimension to what might otherwise have been a dry compilation of historical facts. This format effectively enhances the presentation's overall appeal and interest.

8. Mrs. Lalthakimi:

Mrs. Laltanpuui, representing the administration, commended the program and recommended the organization of similar events in the future. She emphasized the positive impact of such programs on the institution's NAAC (National Assessment and Accreditation Council) report.

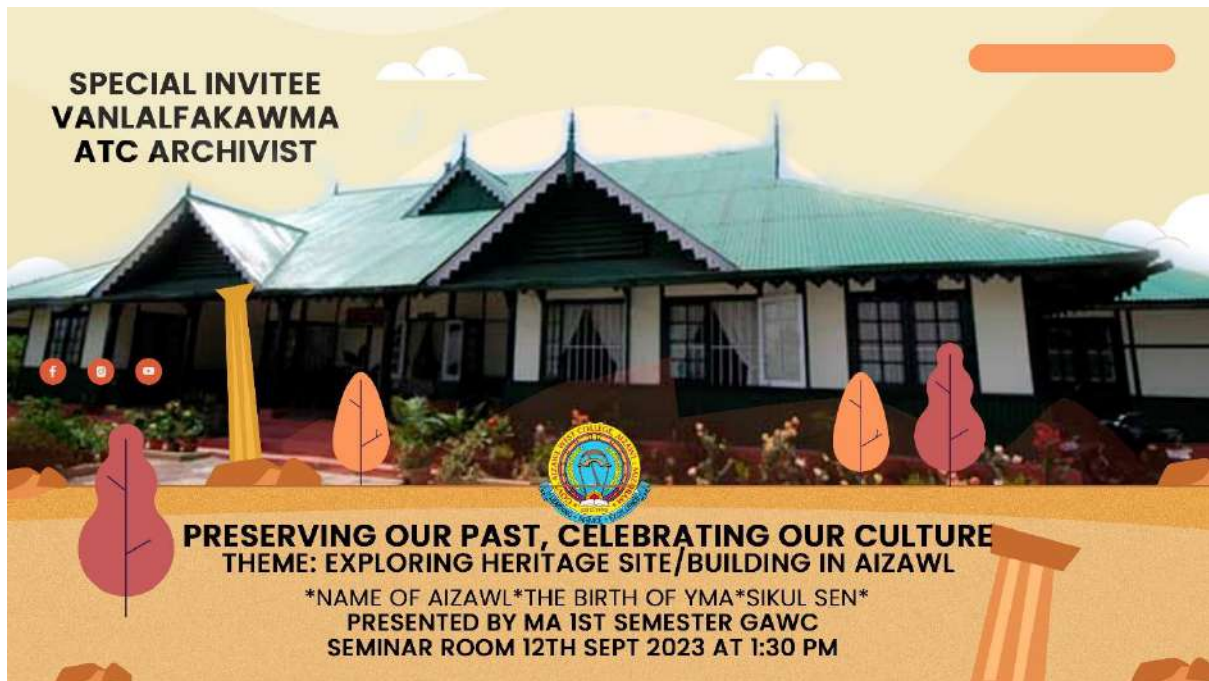

FEEDBACK FROM THE PARTICIPANTS

- For an institutional level and considering the students' resources, it was a commendable undertaking. To take this to the next level, I would suggest going beyond and exploring the era before the arrival of the missionaries. This will truly emphasize the theme and make it more 'Mizo kutchhuak ngei.'
- The youth of this generation should be aware of and cherish their culture, tradition, history, and heritage sites. They should also understand the importance of preservation and take responsibility for popularizing them among the general public. People are awakening to these aspects as well.
- In comprehending tangible heritage, besides textual and oral representation, "visual" elements and images hold equal importance. If students focus more on the techniques and methods of analyzing images and presenting them effectively, their work can reach a higher level. This benefits both the teachers and students in gaining knowledge about our heritage and understanding the importance of protecting our historical places.

- Benefits both the teacher and students by gaining knowledge of our heritage as well as the importance of the protection of our historical places.
- Good work!
